

Transactional and Informational Sitelets

Ehtan Munson

- A Web site that has any interesting size is not a cohesive entity. Rather, it is a collection of sitelets. (example: Amazon product browsing and checkout)
- We hypothesize that the kinds of developers who build a site, and their development tools and practices are driven by sitelet type, such as transactional or informational.